Hilton Head Island Airport Announces New Route to Washington, D.C.

The Hilton Head Island Airport announces that beginning May 4, 2019, American Airlines will be adding another destination on Saturdays and Sundays from Hilton Head Island, with a new flight to Washington Reagan Airport. The addition of this flight is in part due to a runway extension that was completed in June and will complement existing American Airlines service to Charlotte Douglas International Airport.

“We’re thrilled that this route has been announced only two weeks after our last major announcement,” said Jon Rembold, Airports Director. “This will continue to improve the travel options for our residents and visitors and fulfills a route request vocalized by many on the island. American Airlines has been a superb partner over the years and we couldn’t be happier to experience this positive growth with them.”

Travelers can book directly at www.aa.com beginning Nov. 3, 2018. For additional information about the Hilton Head Island Airport, visit www.hiltonheadairport.com.
